News Briefs

School of Medicine commencement:
Richard E. Flinders was given the School of Medicine's prestigious Gold-Headed Cane at May 28 commencement for 139 seniors. The cane, a UCSF tradition since 1939, is given to the senior whom classmates and teachers decide best exemplifies the qualities of a "true physician." Robert H. Crede, Professor of Medicine and Chairman of the Gold-Headed Cane Society, presented the cane.

Dr. Flinders and the other two nominees, E. Michael Darby and John R. Pierce, Jr. were inducted into the distinguished society at a banquet the previous evening. Two honorary members also were welcomed into the Society "for their outstanding contributions to teaching": Crawford Bost, Clinical Professor Emeritus of Pediatrics, and Charles A. Noble, Jr., Clinical Professor of Medicine. The three graduates will begin the following internships: Darby in medicine at Moffitt Hospital; Flinders in family practice at Sonoma County Community Hospital; Santa Rosa; and Pierce in medicine at Vanderbilt University Hospitals, Nashville. Other graduation honors went to Martin Ernster who gave the senior address. Ernster will undertake a pediatric internship in primary care at Moffitt. Four faculty members were given Kaiser awards, established by the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foun-

School of Dentistry Commencement: The School of Dentistry will confer 191 degrees at its 95th commencement on Saturday, June 4, at 11 a.m., in the Palace of Fine Arts, San Francisco. Five members of the teaching staff, selected by student vote, will be presented with Outstanding Faculty Awards. Babette Husman, president of the Dental Hygiene graduating class, will present the award for that class to Troy E. Daniels. Mark Brown, president of the School of Dentistry graduating class, will present four Outstanding Faculty Awards. Recipients honored will be: Robert Brigante, Dean of Student Affairs and Clinical Professor of Removable Prosthodontics; Mack Parker, Clinical Professor of Removable Prosthodontics; Clarence Sheets, Jr., Vice-Chairman and Clinical Professor of Fixed Prosthodontics; and Robert Staffanou, Associate Clinical Professor of Fixed Prosthodontics.

38 student awards were presented at an earlier ceremony. Recipients were selected upon nomination and vote by students and faculty. Patricio Larragoite received the Preventive Dentistry and Community Health Award; Gene Swidecki received the California Academy of General Dentistry, the American Academy of Dental Radiology, and the George A. Hughes Awards; Kenneth Miyasaki received the

The winners of the Chancellor's Award for Public Service are Mary Olney, and Sharon DeShong MacLachlan. The Thomas N. Burbridge Award, given to the winner who has worked for social justice and equal education and employment opportunities, went to Lewis Nelson. The Chancellor's Award is given to the campus members who, in their personal lives, have contributed the most service to the community. The Chancellor's Awards carry a $500 stipend. The Burbridge Award gives $600, $100 of which is donated by the UCSF Black Caucus. The Burbridge Award is named for the late UCSF Associate Professor of Pharmacology, active civil rights leader, and winner of the Chancellor's special service award in 1971. This year's ceremony was dedicated to the memory of the late Edison Uno, former Assistant Dean of Housing and winner of the 1972 Chancellor's Award for Public Service. Nelson, an architectural associate in the Facilities Management Department, was given the award "for his dedication toward achieving quiet resolution of employee grievances and for his work in developing effective minority participation in construction projects at UCSF." Olney is Emeritus Clinical Professor of Pediatrics in the Pediatric Diabetic Clinic. She was cited "for her perserverance in establishing summer camp for diabetic children and raising funds to support it for 40 years." Olney was named 1969 UCSF alumnus of the year and was a 1976 recipient of the Chancellor's San Francisco Medal Award for distinguished contribution to the campus. MacLachlan, a counselor for the Ambulatory and Community Medicine Division, has worked as a counselor in a number of areas, including alcoholism, rehabilitation, and Sickle Cell Disease. She was honored "for her work as founder of East Bay Rheumatoid Arthritics for Action and for her activities as a genetic and alcohol rehabilitation counselor. Others nominated for the awards were: Charles E. Becker, Assistant Professor of Medicine,

SFGH Briefs

A new one-year fellowship in energency medicine will begin at SFGH on July 1, with four trainees enrolled. Initiated by the SFGH Emergency Service in conjunction with the Department of Surgery, the program will focus on trauma and emergency care in both the SFGH Emergency Room and at Central Emergency Hospital. Trainees will also spend five months at selected locations outside the emergency department, such as pediatrics, orthopedics, anesthesia, and gynecology. The program is primarily designed for physicians with some prior training in emergency medicine. For information contact William L. Teufel, M.D., 565-8123.

Four 16mm. films for non-English speaking expectant mothers have been completed by the Self-Health Project of the SFGH Women's Clinic. The films, in Spanish, Cantonese, Tagalog, and Korean, may be purchased, or videotape showings may be arranged for hospitals, health agencies and community organizations. Each film stars members of the ethnic community for which it was produced and each discusses preparation for childbirth, nutrition, family planning, and other health services available in the community, including health programs at SFGH. The Self-Health Project, funded under a San Francisco Foundation grant, is under medical supervision of the UCSF Obstetrics and Gynecology Service at SFGH. Medical director of the Self-Health Project is Donald Minkler, UCSF Associate Clinical Professor of Ob/Gyn. For further information call Terry Looper, MPH, Coordinator, Self-Health Project, 282-4768.
